ROCKEFELLER, John Davison, 26 Broadway, New York; res. Tarrytown, N. Y., Cleveland, O., and West 54th St., New York, N. Y.

Capitalist; b. Richford, Tioga County, N. Y., July 8, 1839; s. William Avery and Eliza (Davison) Rockefeller; family removed to Cleveland, Ohio, 1853; completed studies in high school at age of 16; m. Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 8, 1864, Laura C. Spelman; children: Bessie (b. 1866, died 1906, married Professor Charles A. Strong, 1889); Alta (b. 1871, married E. Parmalee Prentice, Edith (b. 1872, married Harold F. McCormick, 1895); John D., Jr. (b. 1874, married Abby Greene Aldrich, daughter of Senator Nelson A. Aldrich, 1901); thirteen grandchildren. At age of sixteen, clerk in forwarding commission house of Hewitt & Tuttle, and after fifteen months became cashier and bookkeeper in charge of office of the firm; before he was nineteen engaged in commission business on own account, under firm name of Clark & Rockefeller, which continued, with some change of partners, until 1865. Meanwhile, in 1862, that firm, with others, established oil refining business of Andrews, Clark & Co. Sold interest in commission house in 1865, and, with Mr. Andrews, bought interest of associates in oil refining business, establishing firm of Rockefeller & Andrews, developing business rapidly. Later admitted William Rockefeller to firm, shortly after which all the partners united in founding firm of Rockefeller & Co., in New York City, for sale of products of their refineries. Two years later, 1867, these companies, with Henry M. Flagler, consolidated under name of Rockefeller, Andrews & Flagler, and in 1870 that firm dissolved and organized the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, which was organized with a capital of $1,000,000, with John D. Rockefeller, pres; William Rockefeller, v.-pres; and Henry M. Flagler, sec. and treas. Many other refineries in Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York, associated themselves with the Standard Oil Co., from time to time, and in 1882, The Standard Oil Trust was formed, with capital of $70,000,000, later increased to $95,000,000, which, within seven or eight years came into possession of the stocks of the companies controlling the greater part of the petroleum refining business of the United States, and also of oil producing interests. The Supreme Court of Ohio, in 1892, declared the Trust to be illegal, and it was dissolved into various companies in each of which Mr. Rockefeller was a stockholder. It is estimated that the total amount he has given for philanthropic and charitable purposes up to 1921 exceeds $500,000,000. Nearly four-fifths of this has gone to the four great charitable organizations which he has created: The Rockefeller Foundation, General Education Board, The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial, and the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Quite as significant as the magnitude of these gifts is the fact that they are free from all restrictions, having been given for the general purposes of the respective corporations, the trus. of which have power to dispose of the principal as well as the income. As the corporate purposes of these organizations are extremely broad, and the gifts free from restrictions, they will always be adaptable to the changing needs of future generations. While it is probably true that Mr. Rockefeller has been the richest man in the world, in view of the statement made by competent authorities that his present wealth is less than $500,000,000, it would appear that in making his gifts he had drawn very heavily upon capital as well as income.

TO BANK EXECUTIVES

As a purchaser of bonds for your institution, you are probably aware that a bond will only fluctuate for the following four reasons:

(1)

Because of a change in the intrinsic position of a corporation. We guard against this by maintaining an "Individual News Service" which keeps you posted on the latest earnings, news items, etc., pertaining to your particular companies in which you have invested.

(2)

Because of a change in a given industry. For instance, from 1916 to 1919 public utilities were at a disadvantage, but from 1920 to 1922 they were in a strong position. Our "Department for Industrial Research" watches the industries in which you have invested and keeps you posted.

(3)

Because of a change in economic conditions. Our "Financial and Commercial Bulletin" keeps you posted on the money market, legislation, tariff, trend of commodity markets, etc.

(4)

Because of a change in political conditions in case of foreign bonds. We maintain a "Foreign News Service" to keep our clients protected on their foreign investments.

We solicit inquiries from banks and individuals who appreciate a highly specialized and efficient statistical service.

A Modern Banking Service With Modern Banking Equipment

Two years ago the Union National Bank was conducting a growing banking business and rendering a complete personal service to its depositors, even though somewhat handicapped by banking quarters that had become too small.

During the inconvenience of the rebuilding and enlarging period our business grew—through the recommendations of satisfied customers.

Today, in its enlarged and completed banking house, the old personal service continues—but better than ever because of ample room and modern equipment.

SPECIALISTS

For years we have had a force of engineers engaged in compiling and keeping up to date an analysis of the railroads and their bonds. The Business Editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Mr. Richard Spillane, writing editorially about this work of ours, said in part as follows:

> "If there is anything so complete and so detailed elsewhere in America it is not known to one individual who has a fair knowledge of railroads, and particularly of the statistical data relating to railroad securities."

We will be glad to send a reprint of Mr. Spillane's complete editorial to anyone interested. As a result of this work, we believe we can be of service to investors, as We can tell you which in our opinion is the safest one of all the long term railroad bonds at today's prices, returning 6%, 6½%, 7%, or any other per cent.

If you want the best, not the 4th or 40th best, may it not be worth your while to permit us to submit a report on your holdings of railroad bonds, or obtain our suggestions for additional investments?

A Title Policy in The Title Guaranty Company is a bond of indemnity against loss by reason of a defective title. You insure against fire. Why not Title Insurance? Only those familiar with real estate titles realize the many chances for loss by reason of defective titles.

When a missing heir turns up or a forged instrument appears in your chain of title, or it is found that a will in the line of title has been misconstrued, a Title Policy looks as good as a fire insurance policy in case of fire. But Title Insurance does more than indemnify you. Experienced men take care of your settlement, and they see that your deed or mortgage has been properly prepared and recorded. They see that taxes are adjusted and paid, fire insurance transferred and all adjustments made at the time of transfer. This alone is often worth the price of a policy. Executors and Trustees and Trust Companies are rapidly realizing that they are not properly protecting their clients without a title policy.

S. H. McKEE,
President.
